

Top Award from the World's Leading Communications Company

What's wrong with many UK companies?

The failure to communicate effectively with their staff and customers certainly springs to mind.

What's the answer?

Proven communication solutions from a North East company who have taken the UK communications industry by storm and who have just been given a prestigious award from the World's Leading Communications Company Motorola.

Thousands of companies in the North East are looking to improve how they work in order to grow even in the hardest of times. Their chances have now dramatically increased as Newcastle based Apex Radio Systems Ltd, who on the back of scooping the honour of Motorola's Leading UK Dealer for their award winning XTNi 2 Way Radio, are now offering North East businesses the chance to trial their range of Two Way Radios, FREE OF CHARGE.

Speaking about the award, Phill Bates, Motorola's Director of Sales for the License Free Business for Northern Europe and the Middle East had this to say about Apex Radios success:

"Motorola are delighted that Newcastle based Apex Radio Systems have become Motorola's Largest UK Dealer for the XTNi Two Way Radio. Their commitment to providing clients with first class products fits in perfectly with Motorola's product range and Motorola look forward to working with Apex for many years to come."

But what does this latest award mean for the North East?

Ian Curry, General Manager of Apex Radio Systems Ltd. explains:

"Deep down, every business wants to improve how they operate so they can prosper and grow. Businesses in the North East are no different but our region is very often neglected by suppliers of communications equipment. Our Free Trial offer is open to any North East based business who wants expert advice and a local and friendly service.

Ian went on to add: "From a local school who wants to stay in touch and improve the safety of their children to sporting venues who need fail safe communications on match days, we're here to give local companies the chance to improve their communication without risk."
