

"Deal with a company who makes things easy."
National Security Manager - New Look

Total Support for Corporate Customers

Apex offer a wide range of managed corporate services to multi-national companies who prefer to outsource the time consuming work involved with administering two-way radio communications at their different locations.

Where a customer has numerous premises, they need complete control of everything from licensing to invoice authorisation when handling two-way radio.

The resources needed by a company to deal with this can be huge - but with Apex having the knowledge and experience to provide you with what is equivalent to an extra member of staff, then we can ensure you save money.

You will benefit by having :

- * single point of contact for all radio related issues
- * financial savings to you by reducing staffing levels and cutting out administration
- * corporate discounts on all radio products
- * expert training and advice available to all your staff
- * only top quality radio products supplied
- * one single monthly invoice with detailed summary for all radio related charges
- * complete checks on all charges made to your company by radio suppliers

If you can benefit from that "extra member of staff" without the salary implications, then we can discuss your requirements in strict commercial confidence. A unique proposal can then be raised to reflect your specific needs.
